

Thank you so much for speaking up for your sisters!

This portrait is of Esther, who was kidnapped and held captive by Boko Haram in Nigeria for three years. After attending an Open Doors trauma workshop she said:

“We came with heavy hearts and now we are leaving with joy.”

Thank you for making sure that women like Esther are seen in UK government policy. Thank you for praying that they might know the value that they have in Christ and be empowered to reach their God-given potential in their contexts. Thank you for uniting as a church to See. Change.

Please use this postcard as a reminder to pray. Perhaps keep it in your Bible or even put it on your fridge?

This portrait was painted by British artist, Hannah Rose Thomas.
